Call for Cover Art

Submit your artwork for the cover of AEM E&T!

SAEM's new journal, Academic Emergency Medicine Education and Training (AEM E&T) is soliciting submissions of drawings, paintings, or photographs, to illustrate the cover of AEM E&T. We are looking for submissions that demonstrate unique artistic vision and creativity with a theme that relates to education and training in emergency medicine.

Eligibility:
Any SAEM member may submit artwork.

Artwork Criteria:
- It must be your own artwork.
- It must be previously unpublished
- The image must be appropriate to AEM E&T and reflect education and training in emergency medicine
- No less than 450 dpi set at the required size (2.5" x 2.5") in eps or tiff format
- The required size is 2.5" W and 2.5" H (Images which cannot be cropped to a square, cannot be considered.)
- Multiple images may be submitted

Selection Process:
Submissions with identifiers removed will be reviewed by the AEM E&T editorial board. Submitters with the selected artwork may be asked to sign a copyright release form. The artwork selected will be featured on the front cover of the journal and a summary of the subject of the artwork and its relevance to emergency medicine education and training, as well as the artist's name and affiliation will be printed in the corresponding AEM E&T issue. Winners will also be highlighted on SAEM social media.

Instructions:
Please send submissions electronically as file attachments to the SAEM office, to the attention of Stacey Roseen, director, communications and publications: sroseen@saem.org.

Submissions should include:
- The title of the artwork
- The artist's name, email address, telephone number, and affiliation.
- A 25-50-word description of the artwork, the artist's inspiration for creating the artwork, and why the work is relevant to education and training in emergency medicine.

Deadline:
December 9, 2016
